Prof. Dr. iur. Bernhard Rütsche

Ordinarius für Öffentliches Recht und Rechtsphilosophie
Universität Luzern, Rechtswissenschaftliche Fakultät

Date: Monday 16 April 2012 12:15 – 14:00

Location: Hörsaal 2 im Klinikum 1 (Spitalstrasse 21) 2 OG

Abstract

The course begins by defining the notions of health care, medical and biomedical law. This is followed by an overview of the sources of national health care law. In this regard, special attention is given to federal powers and fundamental rights in the context of medicine and health care matters. The relevant sources of international health care law, in particular international treaties and soft law are then explored. The course will be conducted by alternating theoretical inputs with case studies.
